Inesoft Cash Organizer Windows 7 Requirements: Compatible with all systems, compatible with both 32 and 64bit systems. The software is compatible with Windows OS like Windows 7/8/8.1/10. The software is available as both a program and a portable application. The software requires the Internet Connection or a direct connection to a computer. Regarding your issue: If you are the administrator of the computer the System policy is the way to go. What it actually does is, If you are the administrator of the computer the System policy is the way to go. What it actually does is, it connects to the machine. This is what is called 'persistent' connection. This system policy can't be disabled. The application will check the firewall and disable itself if it is turned on. When it's turned off on the machine, it'll try to connect to the machine and if it succeeds, it starts the program. If you don't want the software to connect, then either disable the firewall or find the program that connects to the system and stop it. On a side note: I usually create shortcut on the desktop when I want something to be started on startup. This allows me to add programs easily and not have to reenter the command lines every time the computer is turned on.
